BRINGING RECOVERY HOME

Addiction & Mental Health Services

EPIC for Families

EPIC (education, planning, integration, and coaching) was designed especially for multiple members of a family with the need for systemic change and willingness to engage in education and action plans. There are situations where families become out of balance and specialized and ongoing support is required to regain equilibrium.

Interventions

Intervention services work with the family and loved ones to identify appropriate next steps in addressing an individual's high risk, substance use, compulsive behaviors and mental health related issues. Establishing a professionally-led, well-coordinated, and executed plan prepares a client and family for a successful transition to a treatment and aftercare experience.

Personal Recovery Assistants (PRA)

Working with a case manager alongside the family and treatment team, PRAs (also referred to as companions) provide support, guidance, mentorship and advocacy for individuals in early recovery from substance use disorders, compulsive behaviors and mental health related issues.

Safe Passage

Safely accompanying individuals transitioning between levels of care within the treatment continuum. These situations often present emotional distress and higher risk that require the guidance and support of a professional.

Case Management

Leads in the development of a community-based treatment team providing a road map of strength-based solutions. Case Managers provide expert guidance, coordination and communication.

Monitoring

An accountability partnership of an individual's ongoing commitment to abstinence. This service provides families, employers and the legal system with data-driven results compiled from daily check-ins and random drug and breathalyzer testing.

The Coach Connect

A virtual platform providing one-on-one support with a certified coach to assist in developing and implementing a balanced recovery plan. Building independence through connection, personal interaction, and measured progress of individualized daily and weekly goals, The Coach Connect can be stand alone or as a complement to Monitoring.
